Divonne-les-Bains

A source of emotions

Soothe • Recharge • Reconnect

In Divonne-les-Bains, water is everywhere.

It shapes the landscape, tells the story, and inspires experiences.

From the springs to the lake, from the river to the relaxation spots, every drop invites you to slow down, breathe, and reconnect with what matters most.

Here, life flows to the rhythm of water. It's a place to stroll, recharge and have fun.

Let yourself be carried along.

Divine springs

Fed by around thirty springs, Divonne-les-Bains is known for the quality and freshness of its water, which flows at a constant 8°C year-round from the Emma, Vidart, Barbilaine and Ausone springs.

In the past, the Emma spring fed an 11 km-long Gallo-Roman aqueduct to Nyon. At the foot of Mont-Mussy, the Grande Source gives rise to the Divonne, a river that flows into Lake Geneva in Versoix.

From Roman times to the era of thermal baths, these springs trace the living history of the town.

The Gallo-Roman Aqueduct

Built in 45 BC to supply the veterans' colony founded by Julius Caesar, the aqueduct carried water from the springs of Divonne to Noviodunum (now Nyon), serving a population of nearly 25,000.

Part of it is visible on rue de l'Aqueduc since 2001, and a reconstruction is on display in the Jardin du Pont des Îles.

Water, a historic force

Our tip: continue your visit at the Roman Museum in Nyon (Switzerland).

The lake

The brainchild of local painter and sculptor Jean Debaud, Lac de Divonne is a 45-hectare artificial lake created in 1964.

Its 3.3 km circuit can be explored on foot, by bike, on rollerblades or by pedal car. The planets trail, remains of a Roman aqueduct and views of Mont Blanc make every walk a varied and rewarding experience. Whether for swimming, relaxing, water sports or taking in the scenery, life here revolves around the lake.
